

Widelity Case Study

3rd party analysis

Challenge/Opportunity

Managing and monitoring cost of circuits with outside vendors(lec) is critical for telecommunication companies. Widelity observed that a CLEC needed to implement tracking of leased circuits to ensure they were still being utilized therefore paying for active services.

Solution

Widelity provided data analysis services to review port status on DSL circuits being leased from 3rd party suppliers. Widelity worked with various vendors to determine the need of the underlying circuits and impact to customer if status was in question. Widelity provided project management in taking ownership of critical financial control functions. This effort attributed to the disconnect of over 2000 unused circuits and yielded a monthly cost savings of over 100K per month.

Benefits

This effort yielded a significant monthly cost savings of over 100K per month
